

board on hand.

After consideration by the county commissioners, the Rock County Farm Bureau, and the Chamber of Commerce for a period of nearly a year, the county has finally entered into a stage where the farmers, breeders and the chamber of this city are co-operating to make the actual fact of the completion of the project will be conducted.

Being the first time that a meeting of this character has been held here, it is being watched with interest. The chamber is doing everything possible to aid the cattle men.

At the same time, the county agent situation will be brought up. Those in attendance will be asked whether they desire to have the county chamber of Commerce open an agricultural department for their benefit.

BANKS HERE CUT LOANS $200,000

Deposits Decrease $300,000
While Cash Resources Take Jump of $164,000.

Loans in Janesville at the six banks have been cut $200,000 in the period from September 8 to November 13, according to the statements called for by the banking department.

While loans have decreased, cash resources increased by $164,000, which situation makes for greater banking strength here.

The total of loans for the local banks now is $3,300,000. While deposits total $3,500,000, a decrease of $800,000 in two months.

Savings deposits dropped $33,151.71, and checking deposits fell $145,050. Counting upon these facts, one banker declared that the difference is due practically entirely to the shutting down of the huge factory of the Samson Tractor company.

"When people are out of work," he said, "they will naturally draw on their checking accounts and stop putting money into their savings account."

Figuring on the former population of the city as 15,253, the drop in deposits amounts to about $17 a person.

Cause for the cutting down of loans was stated by one banker as being due to the federal reserve bank calling them all in.

"The situation is made now only in cases where it is absolutely necessary," said another banker. "Of course the tight money market is due to an extent to the farmers holding their crops and loaning heavily from country bankers which in turn call upon the city banks for aid."

"On the whole," said another banker, "Janesville's condition is better than many other cities. We have not been so badly affected as many other places right here in our own state."

PEACE PERSONIFIED IN FIUME WAR

Trieste, Dec. 3.—Fishermen's boats on the gulf of Quarnero, in that body of water, about which war is theoretically being carried on, last night was silent and this morning saw no sign of war. The truce, which has been in effect for several months, has been renewed for another month. The truce was lighted up during the night, the coast near the city appeared like a boulevard along the expanse of water. Looking from Abbazia, one could see nothing that did not personify peace.

BOARD HEARS TWO SEWER COMPLAINTS

Complaints of Charles Snyder, plumber, and Mrs. Spaulding, Hickory street, were heard by the board of public works at a meeting in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon. Snyder being told that the city is not liable in her case. Mrs. Spaulding was advised to adjust her claim with the plumber who laid the sewer on last fall over which the dispute has arisen.

Mr. Snyder seeks payment of something over $20 for work in finding stoppage in a first ward sewer. He claims the obstruction evidently was in the main sewer to the fault being pointed to the fault being in the lateral laid under his contract. The case was continued for further investigation by City Engineer C. V. Knoch. Mayor Welsh presided at the meeting.

CHILDREN'S JOYS ARE UNBOUNDED AT STORY HOUR

"Ooooh! My book has pictures of elephants!" "Oh, look! The big giant in mine." The children's room at the public library could be said to be the most popular place in the city for children on Saturdays, and on rainy days today its charm is doubled. Story hour begins at 11 o'clock, but long before that time children start coming, and soon make themselves at home.

Most of the children, upon entering, soon find something to interest them and settle down to wait for the story. Only a buzz is heard. Occasionally a racket is made. One boy this morning found such a good book that he had to show it to his papa.

HUNDREDS WORK IN TOBACCO HERE

All Is Taken Down and Stripping Started—Samson Men on Job.

While reports indicate that tobacco throughout this part of Southern Wisconsin is all down off the poles and the stripping process is in the most active stage, the buying market is still experiencing "sleeping sickness."

There is absolutely nothing doing and will not be until after the holidays. Whether there will be any buying after that is a question. The manufacturers have bought up all the good leaf and it is not very likely that they will be after much of the crop that is left. That is not until prices get down to a more normal basis. The fact cannot be gotten away from that the harvest did not bring forth a leafy crop.

"Sampling" lots are commencing to arrive in some of the local warehouses. Two such, bought earlier in the season while the tobacco was still in the field, were delivered during the past week.

Sheds are busy now in the stripping process. The fall in industry has been a boon to the grower by providing him with all the help that he needs. In fact, he is being flooded right now with men and women seeking work. The men are not demanding high wages, but are more willing to accept pay that is offered.

Many women are at work on the tobacco, a number of them leaving Janesville to engage in the work. A large number of women are working for Samson, instead of floating to other cities, have gone into the sheds. This is believed to be due partially to the fact that the big tobacco plant had drawn many farm hands by the high wages that were being paid for unskilled labor.

Reports from Edgerton are to the effect that the leaf is in good "case" generally. Says the Tobacco Reporter: "The portion of the leaf affected by the drought during the growing season does not 'case' readily, but the weather for putting the tobacco into proper case has left nothing to be desired."

From up in Northern Wisconsin it is reported that the tobacco is down and that excellent soft weather prevails for case.

200 HEAR PLEAS FOR EXTENDING WORK OF CHURCH

There were 200 members of the Congregational church at the conference held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Loveloy, 55 Jackson street, where plans were formulated for the welcoming of the new pastor, Rev. Charles Scribner, who is expected soon from his charge in Milwaukee.

Matters of church welfare were discussed by L. A. Marchant, Mrs. J. A. Craig, Fred S. Sheldon and H. S. Loveloy. Extension of the activities of the women's bureau was urged, together with additional interest in the Sunday school by the formation of adult classes in Bible study and a plea that the members respond to meet the largest budget in history.

T. S. Sheldon, chairman of the finance committee, spoke optimistically of repairs of the summer, which he stated amounted to $3,000, $3,000 of which was for the new roof and $200 for the steeple. Pledges have been made in the sum of $12,650 and a budget for the year estimated by the church board at $13,000, which he said means the church of his increased responsibility.

Boyd Hill, accompanied by Miss Denning, entertained at intervals with musical selections. Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Marchant, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dale, Miss Ruth Jeffris, and Mrs. J. M. Whitehead assisted Mr. and Mrs. Loveloy in receiving the guests, and Mrs. E. J. Haumerson was in charge of the dining room. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

GETS $300 VERDICT AGAINST DOCTORS

Plaintiff Sought $10,000—Jury Takes 5 Hours to Decide.

A verdict for the plaintiff for $300 damages was returned by the jury trying the action of Ray Gerred against Drs. Harold M. Helm and Arthur Helm of Beloit. The jury was out five hours, arriving at its verdict at ten o'clock last night. Gerred sued for $10,000.

The jury held the Beloit physicians responsible for not keeping the wound open until all discharges were made to properly heal an abscess.

The action of Mrs. Hetty Cunningham against the Rockford Interurban company was before the court yesterday. An attempt is being made to settle the case without presentation of the jury.

LIQUOR THIEVES WILL TRY ANYTHING

Mrs. Jennie Veatch, and daughter, Mrs. Jennie Veatch, of Chicago, who are frequent visitors in Jamesville at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. A. C. Kent, La Vista, Ill., Main street had quite a thrilling experience with burglars at their home in Chicago a short time ago.

Mr. Veatch was an agent for a wine company when the country went dry and had $22,000 of choice wines stored in his home. One day, south side of Chicago, one day, recently, a man appeared at the door and asked for Mr. Veatch, with whom he said he had important business and asked Mrs. Veatch to please call him by phone. As she went to the telephone the man tripped her and three men immediately entered, bound and gagged both Mrs. Veatch and her daughter. The crew then conducted a systematic search of the premises, discovered the liquor and loaded it on automobiles and whisked away in broad daylight.

BUCKERIDGE BACK IN COUNTY JAIL

Several officers to sign the bail bonds, it was said, but Buckeridge told Sheriff Fred Beley he prefers to remain in jail until the case is cleared up. He is charged with non-support of his six year old son.

NEW STREET CARS BOOM BUSINESS

Business of the Jamesville Traction company continues normal in spite of the partial shutdown of the Samsen Traction and other plants of the city. The new cars which are now running on a 10 and 12 minute schedule have aided materially in increasing the traffic as it was believed it would, in spite of the increase in rates to 10 cents and a cent ticket fare. Very few people are paying the cash fare choosing to save 2.50 cents each ride by buying seven tickets for 50 cents.

Alice's reply to this suggestion was all that I had any right to wish and made me rather sorry for the piggy-man. Then she fell to examining the big pearl in various lights while I stretched out on the sand at her side, proceeded to give her a brief biography of the pearl oyster, his joys and sorrows. The beautiful lady, her snowy plumage drying in the sun, appeared to take an absorbing interest in this discourse, especially as regards its relation to commercial possibilities. I could not but be struck by the fact that she had been born to a most exclusive set and until she married John Stormsby her life had been a constant struggle to live according to the standards of the set. There was a great deal of pride and no money to speak of in her immediate family. Stormsby had been a big, well-to-do man, and in the four years of their married life had made a large fortune only to lose it all in a financial crash and die a few weeks later of a heart attack, leaving his widow practically penniless. She had been given a taste for wealth and power only to be suddenly deprived of it, and for the past five years had been dependent on the generosity of relatives. One of her positions, temperamental and personal charms might easily have married another fortune had she set herself deliberately about it, but Alice Stormsby was very far from being cold-blooded, and money alone would not have been enough. With it she desired a mate who would not be repugnant to her; more than that, one who would give her the fullest of life. Possibly the piggy-man had other and more attractive qualities than she had seen fit to describe.

I did not flatter myself that Alice was any more madly in love with me than I with her, but we seemed thoroughly well fitted to each other, and the peculiarities of our positions for the last few weeks had produced a most natural result. No doubt I appealed to her a great deal as she sat to me and now that vast wealth seemed to have been strewn at our feet she was quite ready to give her emotions full scope. I can scarcely blame a woman for a passion inspired by riches. In this day and age money stands for power, just as did physical prowess and valor and domination in the middle ages. A certain type of woman requires this sense of power in her mate, especially when she has already tasted it.

So I proceeded to satisfy this demand in prospect and her tawny eyes were beginning to glow and her breath came more quickly when suddenly there came a crunching in the sand behind us, and spinning quickly about, I discovered at our shoulders the beaming bishop and that aviator of pirates, Captain Channing Drake.

CHAPTER VIII

The first glance at Drake's eager face showed me that he had sized up the situation and was now leaning inwardly for a fatuous fool in having lain there mauling about pearls in their relation to commercial possibilities. I can scarcely blame a woman for a passion inspired by riches. In this day and age money stands for power, just as did physical prowess and valor and domination in the middle ages. A certain type of woman requires this sense of power in her mate, especially when she has already tasted it.

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The rope Billy had found was not exactly like the ones he had chewed in. Then, for those were single big wires with a covering to keep them from touching. This rope in the little chest was not a solid one, but was a big bundle of tiny wires, each one covered with a queer tasting sheath. The wires ran from the pilot's room and the engineer's room to the other working rooms of the ship, and by the use of little push buttons were intended to direct the movements of the mighty floating palace.

"Why this is quite a treat," said Billy's mother, "a big bundle of tiny wires in her mouth. Another little chest just like this one stood along side of it and Billy saw that the door of this was also slightly ajar. He pushed it open with his nose, and inside he found another bundle of wires. These ran from the passengers' cabins to the ship's main cabin and the engineer's room, just been fixing them, carelessly leaving the doors unfastened.

"Why, here's another bundle!" he tried some of them myself," remarked Billy, so both the goats got to work at once.

Billy's mother had only chewed at her rope of wires and began to come off and the wires to touch. The first wires began to happen. The engineer signalled to stop and instantly the mighty ship began to slow up. Within a short time it had come almost to a halt. Billy immediately took down his telephone and called up the engineer.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Nothing, sir," said the engineer. "You gave the signal to stop and we stopped."

"I did no such thing," said the mate. "At any rate, start up again and we'll investigate."

Just then came another signal, and with a great jangling of bells the big engines began to turn and the ship wheeled square around. There was another jangling of bells and the ship began to turn. The mighty engines, the ship began to pick up speed, headed straight back for France. Again the first mate called up the engineer and asked, "Are you crazy? Why have you backed out?"

"Had orders, sir," said the engineer. "You lay her northwest by north at once. Put the second engineer in charge and report to me immediately."

"Aye, aye, sir," said the engineer and started up to present himself to the first mate.

The ship was swinging back on her proper course and had gone straight a little way, when all at once the whistles began to blow and bells to ring and with this the captain came running up to the pilot room. The first mate already had his telephone off the hook and was screaming down to the engineer.

"What are you doing, sir?" he demanded. "I thought I told you to report to me at once. The second engineer has just gone up to report to you, sir."

"Well, why did you blow a lancing whistle out here in mid-ocean? Can't you obey orders? Are you crazy, too? Are you all crazy?" repeated the voice. "The chief engineer has just gone up to report to you, sir."

"What's your name?" inquired the teacher in a Spring Street School in Columbus, Ohio, of a new boy.

Dinner Stories

"Yes," said the traveler, "I had an amusing journey up to town. There were two Scotsmen in the carriage."

"How do you know they were Scotsmen?" asked the Englishman curiously.

"By their accent, I suppose."

"No, you see they both happened to take their pipes out together. Well, they filled them and each calmly waited for the other to strike a match."

"Well, what happened?"

"Oh, I brought out my pipe, so both of them waited for my match."

The minister was addressing the mothers' meeting.

"Women, I want to talk to you a few moments about the of the most vital, one of the most important organs in the whole world," he said.

"What is it that throbs away, whether you wake or sleep, night or day, so long as you are weak out month in and month out, year in and year out, without any volition on your part, hidden away in the depths, as it were, unknown by you, throbs rhythmically all your life long?"

He paused for oratorical effect, and a tired mother was heard to say "The gas meter!"

"Those new arrivals at Beaview Inn seem to be quite wealthy."

"Oh, I'm a student, too."

"How's that?"

"They had been here only a few days, when they continued to get the word passed around that they amassed every dollar of their fortune before the war started."

EQUITY IN FINAL HIT AT N. P. LEAGUE

Closing Session Opposes Any Merger—Bolt by Radical Delegates.

Milwaukee, Dec. 4.—The Wisconsin branch of the Society of Equity, in the closing session of the convention, Friday night, unanimously opposed the amalgamation of the state organization with the farm bureau or any other farmers' organization in which Equity would lose its separate identity. The resolution, opposing the merger, was widely cheered by the delegates and had remained for the final meeting, and left no doubt in the minds of those in the hall but that Equity is determined to continue its warfare against the larges of other competing farm organizations which have been trying to capture the society for several years.

The convention took one last fling at the nonpartisan league, when, despite the opposition of a number of delegates, the publication of the speech of M. P. Johnson of North Dakota was ordered printed in the official Equity paper. A resolution to suppress the publication of this speech, in which Johnson attacked the leaders of the North Dakota, league and in which he termed it a "wildcat" organization, was snowed under, but not before the debate between the friends and foes of the "township" organization had become bitter.

"League is Sliding," During the course of the argument O. P. Rohm of Outagamie county, a director of the society, declared that the "league is sliding—now let her slide." The closing minutes of the convention found the delegates in an uproar, with members on all sides threatening to bolt the society and with others leaving the convention hall because of the failure of the committee on resolutions to report on a resolution introduced by Paul Weinberg of Lincoln county, asking the organization to support the movement to have French black troops withdrawn from German occupied territory.

When the committee announced that it had tabled this resolution there was an insistent demand that it be brought before the convention, and when it became apparent that this would not be done the supporters of the resolution openly announced their withdrawal from the society and bolted the convention.

The resolution was then rescued and was brought before the delegates by members of the committee and, apparently to restore harmony in the ranks when a serious breach was imminent, was passed.

Final Election of Officers. The election on Friday resulted in the selection of S. B. Livingstone of Pepin county as vice president; P. J. Hertefeld of Waupaca county, director for three years; J. A. Hogan, Dane county, and John B. Prince, Chippewa county directors for one year.

The convention endorsed the efforts of Senator Lennett for deep waterways to improve shipping facilities and also endorsed the work of the national board of farmers' organizations.

Dues Are Increased. Members of the society, after considering a resolution to bar all officers and organizers of any national or state organized farmers' organization from holding offices or attending county, state or national conventions of Equity, which resolution was regarded as a direct "wallop" at the nonpartisan league, referred it back to the constitutional committee for further consideration.

The big fight of the afternoon resulted from the committee's recommendations on dues and initiation fees and it was only after long debate and it was only after long debate that increases of $1.50 in the initiation fee and $2.50 in the dues were voted.

The additional funds, it was said, are needed in order that Equity may hold its own with other competing farm organizations and that the policies of the society may be successfully carried out.

LAND REGISTRATION LEGISLATION FRAMED (By Associated Press.)

Madison.—The legislative committee on land registration has been meeting in the capitol during the past week preparatory to formulating recommendations to the legislature. The Torrens system of registration is under consideration, but no announcement in the findings of the committee has been made public.

Under the proposed Torrens system parties to a land transfer would notify the court, and after due time all interested parties would hold a lottery to determine the title. The court would then vest the title in the applicant if the proceedings had warranted.

Uncertainty of title and the possibility of ensuing litigation would be done away with under this system, it is said. The court action would absolutely clear the title.

Emergency Funds Are Given State Institutions (By Associated Press.)

Madison.—The state emergency board has authorized over half a million dollars to state institutions which have been unable to meet all their requirements from the budget granted them by the 1919 legislature, according to records just filed with the secretary of state. Over a million dollars has been granted since the board was formed in 1914, the records show. The governor, secretary of state, and state treasurer make up the board, which is granted power to make additional funds available to departments which are unable to meet all of their expenses.
